The Wells Gazette is now available online at <http://www.wellsgazette.com>. The site has been designed in order to better facilitate the Wells Family in sharing day to day life and family history.

The site currently offers the ability for the users to communicate and share information through the bulletin board, where you can enter information and have others reply. There is also a space for anyone who would like to keep a Blog, which is essentially an online diary. This would be an excellent source of family history for future generations. We are also delighted to be able to offer email through the site as well. If you would like, you can have an arizonawells.com email address. Copies of the newsletter will also be made available on this site so you can read the current issue or you can catch up on older editions.

As soon as is possible the family calendar feature will be available where you can add important family dates, such as birthdays, anniversaries, gatherings, and the dates of those who have already passed. The genealogy portion of the site is near completion and will be ready to use. This section will be open for each family to start building a unified family tree, so we can all share the same information. These details will be kept private and within the family.

I would like to also offer the chance to have your family pictures displayed here on the site as well. If you have some images that need some work to be repaired then please email a scan of them to me and I will work on repairing the image, so we don’t lose a valuable part of the family history. If you need anymore help here just call me at home (801) 424 8303, Jeremy.

If you’re interested in visiting the site why not type <http://www.wellsgazette.com> into the address bar of your internet browser. Once there you can take a site tour, there is an icon for this located on the first page under the picture of the cowboys. For those not familiar with the internet there are also Help sections already on the site which will help you navigate the existing features. The main help button can be found at the top of each page.

If you need more help or to have access granted to the more private parts of the site then click on contact and fill in the simple form and I can call you back. **Note: Jeremy’s wife will have given birth to their fourth child by the time you read to this.
